The Texas Coast: A Rich and Diverse Ecosystem

The Texas coast is a vast and diverse ecosystem, stretching for over 600 miles along the Gulf of Mexico. The coast is home to a wide variety of habitats, including beaches, dunes, marshes, and estuaries. These habitats support a wide variety of plant and animal life, including over 300 species of birds, 100 species of fish, and 50 species of mammals.

The Texas coast is also a major economic engine for the state. The tourism industry generates over $1 billion in revenue each year, and the fishing industry brings in another $1 billion. The coast is also home to several major ports, which handle billions of dollars in trade each year.
