1. The Silent Treatment

Nothing drives a man crazier than the silent treatment. When he tries to talk to you, simply ignore him. Don't answer his calls, don't respond to his texts, and don't even look at him. He'll eventually get the message that you're not happy and he'll start to wonder what he did wrong.

2. The Indifference Treatment

This is similar to the silent treatment, but instead of ignoring him, you simply act like you don't care about him. Don't show him any affection, don't do anything for him, and don't even talk to him unless you absolutely have to. He'll start to feel like he's invisible and he'll eventually start to question his worth to you.

3. The Passive-Aggressive Treatment

This is a more subtle way to get even with your man. Instead of being outright mean to him, you simply make little snide remarks or do things that you know will annoy him. For example, you could always forget to do his laundry, or you could always "accidentally" spill something on his new shirt.

4. The Guilt Trip Treatment

This is a classic way to get even with your man. Simply make him feel guilty for something he did wrong. You can do this by constantly reminding him of his mistake, or by making him feel like he's not good enough for you. He'll eventually start to feel like he's a terrible person and he'll be more likely to do whatever you want to make you happy.

5. The Revenge Sex Treatment

This is a more extreme way to get even with your man, but it can be very effective. Simply sleep with someone else to get back at him. He'll be devastated when he finds out and he'll start to question his own masculinity. Just be careful not to use this tactic too often, or he'll start to think that you're not interested in him anymore.

Getting even with your man without really trying is possible, but it takes some planning and execution. If you follow these tips, you can make him pay for his mistakes without him ever knowing what hit him.
